The Ultimate Training Tool for Hitters®

ProBatter Sports, the manufacturer of the ProBatter PX2 professional line of video pitching simulators used by Major League Baseball, major college teams and hundreds of commercial batting cages and training centers around the world, has now developed a NEW, DO-IT-YOURSELF video conversion kit for the Iron Mike pitching machine produced by Master Pitching Machine Co. The system is available as both a conversion kit or, if you don't already have an Iron Mike machine, a complete kit with an Iron Mike. The ProBatter conversion kit quickly transforms this venerable machine into a 21st Century video simulator.

The kit includes a projection screen and frame, a video projector and a computer control that synchronizes the release of the ball from the Iron Mike machine with a video image of an actual pitcher that is displayed on the projection screen so that the batter believes they are hitting off a real pitcher. The operator can select video images of different, age appropriate, pitchers or elect to use the "create your own image" service offered by ProBatter Sports. The conversion kit works for both stand-alone (shown above) and retrieval systems.

Favorable lease terms are available. Speak to a ProBatter sales rep today.
