Video Conversion Kit for Iron Mike Pitching Machine

ProBatter Sports, the manufacturer of the ProBatter PX3 professional line of video pitching simulators used by Major League Baseball, college teams and batting cages and training centers around the world now offers a DO IT YOURSELF video conversion kit for the venerable Iron Mike pitching machine sold by Master Pitch Machine Co. The system is available as both a conversion kit for customers who already own an Iron Mike machine and will quickly transforms the Iron Mike unit into a 21st century video simulator. If you don't already own an Iron Mike machine, we can provide one at an additional cost.

The kit includes a projection screen, a video projector and computer control that synchronizes the release of the ball from the Iron Mike machine with a video image of an actual pitcher that is displayed on the screen so that the batter believes that the pitch is being thrown by a real pitcher. The batter can select various video images of different age appropriate pitchers. Kits are available for baseball, softball and cricket.
